To run the program, you can install scikit-learn, numpy, pandas, and matplotlib, and then run the program. When running the program, the data images will pop up. You can close all of them to reach the results I get on my report tables.